Dear Dr. Donald Schwert,

I was very interested when you gave me a general description of the software project you were working on last year because I have not been happy with the way that I present minerals and rocks to my students. I have reviewed software in this area and most of it is little more than mineral and rock identification charts taken out of a book and entered into a computer. When you recently described the current rendition of your software I became extremely excited. I think eighth graders will enjoy and find challenging the format you have developed.

I would be happy to test the Geology Explorer software with my students. I will give time to pretest, use and post-test the software in my classes. I am looking forward to working with you on this project.

Sincerely,

Mike Burton
